Steamers of the Norwich and Stamford Line Collide off the Mouth of Cove Harbor.

New London Special to the Chicago Tribune.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 5.—[Special.]—The Norwich and Stamford Line steamers collided off the mouth of Cove Harbor, this morning, a number of passengers, and it is reported that several were injured. The Stamford was struck amidships, carrying away her guards and a number of passengers, and it is reported that several were injured. The Stamford was so badly damaged that she was towed into Cove Harbor, where she will go into the boiler-shop for repairs. The Norwich was not damaged. The collision occurred about 7 o'clock this morning, and was caused by the fog which prevailed at the time. The Stamford left New York last night at 11 o'clock, and the Norwich left Norwich at 5 o'clock this morning. The Stamford was bound for Stamford, and the Norwich for New York. The Stamford was struck on the starboard side, and the Norwich on the port side. The Stamford was struck about midway between the bow and the wheel-house, and the Norwich struck her about the same distance from the stern. The Stamford was struck by the Norwich's bow, which was cut down to the water's edge. The Stamford's hull was not damaged, but her upper works were badly damaged. The Norwich's bow was not damaged. The Stamford's passengers were all transferred to the Norwich, and were brought to this city. The Stamford's passengers were all transferred to the Norwich, and were brought to this city. The Stamford's passengers were all transferred to the Norwich, and were brought to this city

"The Subjects of Which Are Public."

Eloquent Discourse by Rev. J. H. Bayliss, [illegible]

Rev. J. H. Bayliss, pastor of the Park Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, in the course of his sermon yesterday morning, referred to the recent loss of life at Conev Island. "The Subjects of the Sermon," he said, "which I announced for this morning, were the text which appeared during the early hours of the day. The text was the following: 'Behold, I will for his test Proverbs, 14, 34: 'Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people.'

In spite of Yesterday was the anniversary of the birth of [illegible] to a nation, and in spite of the fact that it was a day of [illegible] to any people.

[illegible] Yesterday was the anniversary of the birth of [illegible] to a nation, and in spite of the fact that it was a day of [illegible] to any people. [
